

IMHA

International Maritime Health Association

To whom it may concern:

In January 2009, Maritime Connector established a cooperation with the International Maritime Health Association in order to familiarize all seafarers with the activities of the Association and their endeavors to improve health and medical follow-up for all employees in the maritime industry.

The International Maritime Health Association recognises the ability of Maritime Connector to make available relevant public health information for the benefit of seafarers, and also of their value in assisting seafarers seeking employment. By means of this letter, IMHA would like to demonstrate their support of the website, <http://www.maritime-connector.com/>

The content of the rest of the site is exclusively under the control of Maritime Connector, and there is no undertaking by IMHA to represent any other organisation described therein. This letter does not in any way constitute an endorsement or warranty (whether expressed or implied) of these organisations. IMHA has not verified or confirmed any of the information on the site, maintains no control over these organisations and does not provide a warranty of any sort to any user of the site, or of any linked Web site.
